tionist contends that the teen-age girl is the poorest-red member of the whole family. Dr. Spindler has been pointing out the shortcomings that "in the United States today, with our abundance of rood, a large percentage of our teen-agers-six out of every 10 girls and four out of every 10 boys-have poor diets. Improved Habits Needed

She said that research shows that teen-agers need improved eating nabits. She noted that

The older the child, the poorer the diet. She said the percentage of young people with poor diets increases sharply from antidhood to teen-age. The teen-age girl is the poorest fed member of the family But teen-age boys also need to improve their diets. -The nutrients most often lacking in teen-age diets are calcium and Vitamin C. Iron often is low in the diet of teen-age girls. For teen-agers especially, foods that are high in sugar and fat often replace those with much needed protein, minerals, and vitamins. -Overweight is a pressing problem among teen-agers. Dr. Spindler expressed particular concern over the fact that many teen-age mothers have inadequate diets. Size said 50% of all girls between 15 and 19 are, or have been, married, and that one out of every four mothers bearing a first child is under 20 years of age.

Babies born to undernourished teen-agers may be premature, have congenital defects, or lack adequate nutritional reserves to protect them through birth and the first few months of life," Dr. Spindler said. Permanent Mark

"Undernourishment during pregnancy may also leave a permanent mark on the young mother, and complications of pregnancy and childbirth account for six per cent of the deaths among 18 and 19 year old girls."

Dr. Spindler gave these reasons why so many teenagers are poorly fed:

-Teen-agers skip breakfast. They spend extra time dressing and must rush to catch the bus or a ride. They stay out late at night and oversleep. Breakfast is not ready and they don't have time to prepare it. Girls believe that eating breakfast will make them fat.

-Teen-agers make a poor selection of snacks. One study shows that one-fourth of a teen-ager's caloriesequivalent to a whole meal-come from snacks, which often consist of "empty calories"-foods made up chiefly of fat, sugar, and starches, with small amounts of vitamins, minerals, and proteins in proportion to the calories. -Teen-agers do not drink enough milk.

Fear Fat

-Teen-age girls fear getting fat.

-Teen-agers' attitude about eating. Sometimes meals may seem secondary, especially when they have something else to do, such as meet a date with a car. Or perhaps their time schedules do not coincide with family

The Way To Enjoyment

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The years of World War II left one mark upon the American scene of which little is said these days. The war brought to light a great many backyard farmers who grew what were known as "victory gardens." The products of these gardens helped the nation meet the critical need for food during the war

Such a critical need no longer exists but the garden habit has continued in many people By now, there are small plots scattered inroughout most neignborhoods where one can find a wide variety of crops being grown Even peanuts are produced in some abundance and tomatoes remain an old standby. The fact is that most homes ought to have a garden, for many reasons. Perhaps you think you would rather not bother with a garden and would prefer to buy what you need at the grocery store. This is all right but it touches only one of the many reasons for having a garden If you have a family, the garden plot is one place where the youngsters can dig around and not bother anything. The average family doesn't permit much digging in the front yard but the children delight in having a place where they can build roads, castles, forts, cities, etc. You might not want them digging up the sod but there is no sod in the garden plot.

Also, the garden can serve the cause of home care in other ways. With the way in which lawns are manicured these days, there is no place around the house to get rid of a little extra dirt and no place to get any when you want it. The garden can solve this problem.

And then, there is always the fellow who finds the garden to be a natural invitation to a fishing trip. When the garden is spaded up, the first thing that shows are earth worms and this, to any fisherman, is like waving a red flag in a bull's face. It just does all sorts of things to the fellow. The minute he sees that worm, he thinks of all that unused fishing gear lying in the garage or basement. Perhaps he was given a new rod and reel for Christmas but has not yet tested it out. Naturally, the digging has to stop and the fishing gear must be examined for possible damage over the winter months. A few test castings in the yard convinces you that none of the spring is gone from the rod and no rust has gotten to the reel.

A quick look in the tackle box shows sinkers, hooks, lures, extra line, bubbers, etc., all to be in order. The stock may need building up a little but there is enough there with which to start the season. At this point, it immediately becomes obvious that a great opportunity has presented itself to you. There is all that equipment, there are worms in the garden and the day seems just right for a trip to the local fishing hole. This has the added advantage of delaying any planting in the garden and, thereby, prolonging it as a place in which the children ean play. Since they can get so dirty there, it is naturally one of their favorite

With all these good and valid reasons backing you up, the garden is picked of a can of worms, the gear loaded in the car and you are off. The minute you hit the country you know you did the right thing There, the birds are singing and the bank along the lake is as inviting a place as you

The auxiety of catching some fish is the first thing that takes hold of you. This lasts for about half an hour, after which you become convinced you are not going to catch anything and you settle back just to relax. If there is a little shade, you rest in it and if not, you lie back and pull your hat down over your eyes. If the sun isn't out, you can watch the clouds and figure out the many pictures they seem to represent. At this time of year, the ground is j u s t comfortably warm and still soft from its working by nature through the winter. As you relax there among your thoughts, it might come to you that had it not been for the garden, you would never be where you are at all. And ahead of you lie many more days of working in the garden in one way or another. Even after it is all planted, it must be hoed and the whole process of making it to the lake can most scurrilous Senate cambe repeated.

Now, you really don't need such a guise as this but, somehow, it seems to help. It adds a little something of your own to the fantasy that spreads itself before you in the great outdoors. Gardening is a chore only for those who look at it and go about it in the wrong way. It can be the best thing that ever happened to you and if you manage to produce a few tomatoes in the process, it is just a bonus.

For More Attractive State

Killed by the Public Works Committee of the Legislature recently was a bill that didn't deserve to die. An attempt to resurrect the measure will be made this week by its introducer, Lincoln Sen. Fern Hubbard

Mrs. Orme will try to raise out of committee on the floor of the Legislature LB602, aimed at the elimination of junk yards along the highways of the state. This is a bill that appeals to the aesthetic senses of the people, that would give Nebraska a face-lifting that is badly needed.

As it now stands, the measure would eliminate auto and general junk yards but that can be changed. Elimination would be an extreme that is impractical at this time but control is another matter.

Such junk yards can be effectively

The Javits Proposal

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-NY., has a new angle on foreign aid, expressed in his recent proposal. It is being described as an intriguing innovation, but that is a misstate-

The Javits proposal would give foreign aid a non-political turn. It would create a corporation similar to the present one we know as Comsat. Direction of aid funds would be taken away from the administration and handed over to private management. The government would put up the starting money and ultimately be repaid by the sale of stock in the venture. Then the corporation would be set to work doing good for a profit.

Advocates of the proposal see in it an answer to increasing congressional resistance to foreign aid as it is now administered. And the lure of possible profit would, it is believed, make the scheme popular with taxpayers and investors.

But the great flaw in the scheme is that it takes a leaf out of the book of exploitative colonialism of the 18th and 19th centuries. Great Britain used the scheme in its tea combines and other chartered businesses which went forth into the backward areas and sapped them of their wealth. The tea monopoly gave us trou-

When the United States openly professes to do good for profit it will have vacated the position of a powerful nation most greatly interested in the welfare of a backward area. # We do have some answers to South Korea. Its president, Chung Hee Park, arrived in this country last week for a talk with important Washington people. He brought his own report along

The way he tells it, matters are going along real well in his country which so recently was an international battle ground.

For your information 1965 has been designated as "The Year of Hard Work." This means that, with a successful effort, South Korea will one of these days soon become self-supporting, something it has never been before.

The country has already completed enough electric generating plants to take care of its present needs. It now has $120 million a year in export volume and an increasing amount of that is manufactured goods, principally radios. It has set 1971 as target year for a 54 per cent increase in agricultural production. It is engaging in land levelling, fertilizer plant construction and an expansion of its farm extension service. It is beginning to see the end of its need for the U.S. Food For Peace program. It is enlarging its cement factory program. It now produces and processes enough of its own petroleum for its current needs, and is keeping pace with demand in coal mining.

This is quite a different report than we received a few years ago when the news was military and dwelt on the difficulties of "Heart Break Ridge" It also shows that American aid does help a people who wish to help themselves.

Reapportionment, A Dangerous Issue

WASHINGTON - Fifteen stitutional convention, which Millard Tydings, D-Md., and cisco. trounced him in one of the his stepson, lean, likeable Joe Tydings, who will deliver his maiden speech this week as a freshman senator.

As his first issue, he has chosen to battle against the malapportionment of state legislatures. The Supreme Court has ruled that the legislatures must represent all the voters equally. This has come to be known as the 'one-man, one-vote'' decision, which has caused an uproar in legislatures dominated by rural areas.

Before the Supreme Court stepped in, less than 20 per cent of the population could elect the Senates in eight states. It took only 8 per cent of the people in Nevada to 987 times more than the vote of his city cousin.

Young Tydings will fight to save the Supreme Court decision and to defend equal representation, which will throw him up against some of the same right-wingers who helped crush his father.

These extremists seem more interested in rebuffing the Supreme Court than in saving state legislatures from reapportionment. They are agitating for a new con-

It takes 34 states to call a constitutional convention. Already applications have been received from the legislatures of 24 states. Of course, reapportionment

D-Idaho, Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., Thomas Kuchel, R-Calif., and Frank Moss, D-Utah have chickened in this battle. Kuchel was appointed to the Senate by the Chief Justice who wrote the reanportionment decision. Some of the above have a sincere fear of all-powerful majority government, which they believe should be checked by letting the rural minorities keep their veto in state legislatures.

New CIA Chieftain Quick On Trigger

WASHINGTON - When it feeling at the change of comcomes to assessing the blame or the praise-depending on the viewpoint—for American military intervention in the Dominican Republic it appears that a newcomer gets a larger share than had been previously appreciated.

For Vice Admiral William F. Raborn (ret.) it was an initial venture as head of the Central Intelligence Agency in shaping the course of a major crisis. From the first he insisted with deeply emotional conviction that the rebellion was Communist-dominated and that "another Cuba" was imminent He gave the President the list of 55 Communists involved in the rebellion. It was subsequently shown that the list contained a number of obvious errors.

But it was Raborn's gunghe approach to his task that startled other participants in the high-level conference leading to the decision to send in the Marines. As one of the President's principal advisers remarked afterward, the admiral seemed to have cast himself in the role of Paul Revere charging into the National Security Council

mand in the agency that has such far-flung powers exercised in almost-total secrecy. There were deep misgivings when President Kennedy named McCone, a wealthy California industrialist and a Republican, to head CIA. He had had only limited experience in intelligence as under secretary of the Air Force and chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

☆ ☆ ☆ The fear was that he would be motivated by a quite unprofessional zeal and a desire to keep in the public eye. But, on the contrary, Mc-Cone proved to be a thoroughgoing professional who shunned virtually all public appearances. He won the respect of the top staff built on the foundation of the principle "who is not with World War II OSS. For both personal and business reasons he had long wanted to return to California.

Raborn had no experience in intelligence. His distinguished naval career was climaxed with his direction of the planning and construction of the Polaris submarine. In pushing through this notable advance his organizing ability was invaluable.

Last October when so many retired generals and admirals were whooping it up for Barry Goldwater Admiral Raborn was one of the very few who came out publiely for Johnson's reelection. Copyright, 1965, By UF Synd., Inc.

The Way To Enjoyment

The years of World War II left one mark upon the American scene of which little is said these days. The war brought to light a great many backyard farmers who grew what were known as "victory gardens." The products of these gardens helped the nation meet the critical need for food during the war.

Such a critical need no longer exists but the garden habit has continued in many people. By now, there are small plots scat-Tomatoes To tered throughout most nuts are produced in some abundance and tomatoes remain an old standby. The fact is that most homes ought to have a garden, for many reasons. Perhaps you think you would rather not bother with a garden and would prefer to buy what you need at the grocery store. This is all right but it touches only one of the many reasons for having a garden.

If you have a family, the garden plot is one place where the youngsters can dig around and not bother anything. The average family doesn't permit much digging in the front yard but the children delight in having a place where they can build roads, castles, forts, cities, etc. You might not want them digging up the sod but there is no sod in the garden plot.

Also, the garden can serve the cause of home care in other ways. With the way in which lawns are manicured these days, there is no place around the house to get rid of a little extra dirt and no place to get any when you want it. The garden can solve this problem.

And then, there is always the fellow who finds the garden to be a natural invitation to a fishing trip. When the garden is spaded up, the first thing that shows are earth worms and this, to any fisherman, is like waving a red flag in a bull's face. It just does all sorts of things to the fellow. The minute he sees that worm, he thinks of all that unused fishing gear lying in the garage or basement. Perhaps he was given a new rod and reel for Christmas but has not yet tested it out. Naturally, the digging has to stop and the fishing gear must be examined for possible damage over the winter months. A few test castings in the yard convinces you that none of the spring is gone from the rod and no rust has gotten to the reel.

A quick look in the tackle box shows sinkers, hooks, lures, extra line, bobbers, etc., all to be in order. The stock may need building up a little but there is enough there with which to start the season. At this point, it immediately becomes obvious that a great opportunity has presented itself to you. There is all that equipment, there are worms in the garden and the day seems just right for a trip to the local fishing hole. This has the added advantage of delaying any planting in the garden and, thereby, prolonging it as a place in which the children can play. Since they can get so dirty there, it is naturally one of their favorite

With all these good and valid reasons backing you up, the garden is picked of a can of worms, the gear loaded in the car and you are off. The minute you hit the country, you know you did the right thing. There, the birds are singing and the bank along the lake is as inviting a place as you have ever seen.

The anxiety of catching some fish is the first thing that takes hold of you. This lasts for about half an hour, after which you become convinced you are not going to catch anything and you settle back just to relax. If there is a little shade, you rest in it and if not, you lie back and pull your hat down over your eyes.

If the sun isn't out, you can watch the clouds and figure out the many pictures

As The Clouds Float By

they seem to represent. At this time of year, the ground is j u s t comfortably warm and still soft

from its working by nature through the winter. As you relax there among your thoughts, it might come to you that had it not been for the garden, you would never be where you are at all. And ahead of you lie many more days of working in the garden in one way or another. Even after it is all planted, it must be hoed and the whole process of making it to the lake can most scurrilous Senate cambe repeated.

Now, you really don't need such a guise as this but, somehow, it seems to help. It adds a little something of your own to the fantasy that spreads itself before you in the great outdoors. Gardening is a chore only for those who look at it and go about it in the wrong way. It can be the best thing that ever happened to you and if you malapportionment of state manage to produce a few tomatoes in the legislatures. The Supreme process, it is just a bonus.

For More Attractive State

Killed by the Public Works Committee of the Legislature recently was a bill that didn't deserve to die. An attempt to resurrect the measure will be made this week by its introducer, Lincoln Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme.

Mrs. Orme will try to raise out of committee on the floor of the Legislature LB602, aimed at the elimination of junk yards along the highways of the state. This is a bill that appeals to the aesthetic senses of the people, that would give Nebraska a face-lifting that is badly needed.

As it now stands, the measure would eliminate auto and general junk yards but that can be changed. Elimination would be an extreme that is impractical at this time but control is another matter.

Such junk yards can be effectively screened from the public view by fencing or plantings and set back a reasonable distance from the highway. This would be no major burden upon the property owner involved but would greatly enhance the public image of our state.

It is time that we stopped giving light treatment to the protection of our landscape and time to do something to protect the natural beauty of our countryside. It is time for us to eliminate the eyesores that mar our open spaces and we can do this by giving favorable consideration to Mrs Orme's measure.

The sensitivities of mankind need cultivation such as they would get with this bill. There is enough ugliness in the world that we seem unable to control without letting escape from us those things about which we can do something.

The Javits Proposal

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., has a new angle on foreign aid, expressed in his recent proposal. It is being described as an intriguing innovation, but that is a misstate-

The Javits proposal would give foreign aid a non-political turn. It would create a corporation similar to the present one we know as Comsat. Direction of aid funds would be taken away from the administration and handed over to private management. The government would put up the starting money and ultimately be repaid by the sale of stock in the venture. Then the corporation would be set to work doing good for a profit.

Advocates of the proposal see in it an answer to increasing congressional resistance to foreign aid as it is now administered. And the lure of possible profit would, it is believed, make the scheme popular with taxpayers and investors.

But the great flaw in the scheme is that it takes a leaf out of the book of exploitative colonialism of the 18th and 19th centuries. Great Britain used the scheme in its tea combines and other chartered businesses which went forth into the backward areas and sapped them of their wealth. The tea monopoly gave us trouble, ourselves, and was one of the factors in our drive for independence. This is one of the exploitative factors of colonialism that led to its downfall and which kept the backward countries backward.

When the United States openly professes to do good for profit it will have vacated the position of a powerful nation most greatly interested in the welfare of a backward area. The propaganda value of such an attitude would result in stern defenses against us everywhere and would thus be a great boon to the communist world which is at least more subtle about

Millard Tydings, D-Md., and trounced him in one of the paigns in history. His defeat was avenged last year by his stepson, lean, likeable Joe Tydings, who will deliver his maiden speech this week as a freshman senator.

As his first issue, he has chosen to battle against the Court has ruled that the legislatures must represent all the voters equally. This has come to be known as the "one-man, one-vote" decision, which has caused an uproar in legislatures dominated by rural areas.

Before the Supreme Court stepped in, less than 20 per cent of the population could elect the Senates in eight states. It took only 8 per cent of the people in Nevada to control the state Senate. The vote of a Vermont farmer, as another example, was worth 987 times more than the vote of his city cousin.

Young Tydings will fight to save the Supreme Court decision and to defend equal representation, which will throw him up against some of the same right-wingers who helped crush his father.

These extremists seem more interested in rebuffing the Supreme Court than in saving state legislatures from reapportionment. They are agitating for a new con-

For Vice Admiral William F. Raborn (ret.) it was an initial venture as head of the Central Intelligence Agency in shaping the course of a major crisis. From the first he insisted with deeply emotional conviction that the rebellion was Communist-dominated and that "another was imminent. He gave the President the list of 55 Communists involved in the rebellion. It was subsequently shown that the list contained a number of obvious errors.

公 公 公

But it was Raborn's gungho approach to his task that startled other participants in the high-level conference leading to the decision to send in the Marines. As one of the President's principal advisers remarked afterward, the admiral seemed to have cast himself in the role of Paul Revere charging into the National Security Council to warn that the redcoats were coming.

"I wish John McCone was still over there running the CIA," another participant said, "and I never thought I'd live to see that day.'

This reflects a widespread

feeling at the change of command in the agency that has such far-flung powers exercised in almost-total secrecy. There were deep misgivings when President Kennedy named McCone, a wealthy California industrialist and a Republican, to head CIA. He had had only limited experience in intelligence as under secretary of the Air Force and chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

公 公 公 The fear was that he would be motivated by a quite unprofessional zeal and a desire to keep in the public eye. But, on the contrary, Mc-Cone proved to be a thoroughgoing professional who shunned virtually all public appearances. He won the respect of the top staff built on the foundation of the World War II OSS. For both personal and business reasons he had long wanted to return to California.

Raborn had no experience in intelligence. His distinguished naval career was climaxed with his direction of the planning and construction of the Polaris submarine. In pushing through this notable advance his organizing ability was invaluable.

Last October when so many retired generals and admirals were whooping it up for Barry Goldwater Admiral Raborn was one of the very few who came out publicly for Johnson's reelection. Copyright, 1965, By UF Synd., Inc.

One of the scientists most responsible for these modern advances is Dorothy Crowfoot Hodgkin, an English-woman who became the third woman to win the Nobel Prize in chemistry. The 1964 prize was awarded her in "crystallography."

Crystallography is the branch of physical science dealing with the structure and arrangement of atoms, molecules or ions of which substances are made and their patterns or geometrical relationship to each other. Such knowledge is of prime importance in the discovery of similar but improved substances, in understanding why they "work," or behave as they do, and particularly in learning how to make them artificially-that is, in learning how to copy nature.

Mrs. Hodgkin's work has been an example of a planned and scientifically executed study of the molecules that are of greatest importance to biology and chemistry.

Her earliest work was on the structure of vitamins, antibiotics and sterols, and her first great triumph was the discovery and analysis of the expected of such a frail per-

Blossoms For Your Jable

Planning a dinner party for your favorite quests need not be a difficult task for the hostess. One thing to remember; when you're selecting a china pattern, keep in mind the fact that you'll want to use it for many, many different occasions. The exquisite Coquette fine china pattern by Lenox is the perfect solution to this problem. It is a pattern you'll love and can live with forever. Couquette has the feeling of romance and roses in a beautiful garden. The design is a wreath of shadow roses in the contemporary colors of soft-toned sepias surrounded by the carved elegance of the Sculpture shape. The graceful fluted rim is decorated with 24-karat gold. A table set with this charming pattern relieves you of worry and uneasiness when a dinner party is imminent. With a little ingenuity and careful choice of appointments your table will be sure to please the most critical eye. 5-piece place setting 25.95.

For the general reader, this is the perfect one-volume American history. It is a brilliant new history of the people of the United States of America by Samuel Eliot Morison, a man of action, who is also a scholar. It is a very personal history in which this distinguished historian presents his intellectual and literary legacy to his country. The unique achievement traces the major strands in America's history from pre-historic man to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. With its highly personal approach, its wide-sweeping view, and its masterly literary style, this is every American's story of his country.

The Way To Enjoyment

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The years of World War II left one mark upon the American scene of wait's little is said these days. The war brought to light a great many backyard farmers who grew what were known as "victory gardens." The products of these gardens helped the nation meet the critical need for food during the war

Such a critical need no longer exists but the garden habit has continued in many

people By now, there are small plots scattered throughout most neighborhoods where one can find a wide variety of crops being grown. Even peanuts are produced in some abundance and tomatoes remain an old standby. The fact is that most homes ought to have a garden. for many reasons. Perhaps you think you would rather not bother with a garden and would prefer to buy what you need at the grocery store. This is all right but it touches only one of the many reasons for having a garden.

If you have a family, the garden plot is one place where the youngsters can dig around and not bother anything. The average family doesn't permit much digging in the front yard but the children delight in having a place where they can build roads, castles, forts, cities, etc. You might not want them digging up the sod but there is no sod in the garden plot.

Also, the garden can serve the cause of home care in other ways. With the way in which lawns are manicured these days, there is no place around the house to get rid of a little extra dirt and no place to get any when you want it. The garden can solve this problem.

And then, there is always the fellow who finds the garden to be a natural invitation to a fishing trip. When the garden is spaded up, the first thing that shows are earth worms and this, to any fisherman, is like waving a red flag in a bull's face. It just does all sorts of things to the fellow. The minute he sees that worm, he thinks of all that unused fishing gear lying in the garage or basement. Perhaps he was given a new rod and reel for Christmas but has not yet tested it out. Naturally, the digging has to stop and the fishing gear must be examined for possible damage over the winter months. A few test castings in the yard convinces you that none of the spring is gone from the rod and no rust has gotten to the reel.

A quick look in the tackle box shows sinkers, hooks, lures, extra line, bobbers, etc., all to be in order. The stock may need building up a little but there is enough there with which to start the season. At this point, it immediately becomes obvious that a great opportunity has presented itself to you. There is all that equipment, there are worms in the garden and the day seems just right for a trip to the local fishing hole. This has the added advantage of delaying any planting in the garden and, thereby, prolonging it as a place in which the children can play. Since they can get so dirty there, it is naturally one of their favorite

With all these good and valid reasons backing you up, the garden is picked of a can of worms, the gear loaded in the car and you are off. The minute you hit the country, you know you did the right thing There, the birds are singing and the bank along the lake is as inviting a place as you have ever seen.

The anxiety of catching some fish is the first thing that takes hold of you. This lasts for about half an hour, after which you become convinced you are not going to catch anything and you settle back just to relax. If there is a little shade, you rest in it and if not, you lie back and pull your hat down over your eyes. If the sun isn't out, you can watch the

from its working by nature through the winter. As you relax there among your thoughts, it might come to you that had it not been for the garden, you would never be where you are at all. And ahead of you lie many more days of working in the garden in one way or another. Even after it is all planted, it must be hoed and the whole process of making it to the lake can be repeated.

Now, you really don't need such a guise as this but, somehow, it seems to help. It adds a little something of your own to the fantasy that spreads itself before you in the great outdoors. Gardening is a chore only for those who look at it and go about it in the wrong way. It can be the best thing that ever happened to you and if you manage to produce a few tomatoes in the process, it is just a bonus.

Killed by the Public Works Committee of the Legislature recently was a bill that didn't deserve to die. An attempt to resurrect the measure will be made this week by its introducer, Lincoln Sen. Fern Hubbard

Mrs. Orme will try to raise out of committee on the floor of the Legislature LB602, aimed at the elimination of junk yards along the highways of the state. This is a bill that appeals to the aesthetic senses of the people, that would give Nebraska a face-lifting that is badly needed.

As it now stands, the measure would eliminate auto and general junk yards but that can be changed. Elimination would be an extreme that is impractical at this time but control is another matter.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., has a new angle on foreign aid, expressed in his recent proposal. It is being described as an intriguing innovation, but that is a misstate-

The Javits proposal would give foreign aid a non-political turn. It would create a corporation similar to the present one we know as Comsat. Direction of aid funds would be taken away from the administration and handed over to private management. The government would put up the starting money and ultimately be repaid by the sale of stock in the venture. Then the corporation would be set to work doing good for a profit.

Advocates of the proposal see in it an answer to increasing congressional resistance to foreign aid as it is now administered. And the lure of possible profit would, it is believed, make the scheme popular with taxpayers and investors.

We do have some answers to South Korea. Its president, Chung Hee Park, arrived in this country last week for a talk with important Washington people. He brought his own report along.

The way he tells it, matters are going along real well in his country which so recently was an international battle ground.

For your information 1965 has been designated as "The Year of Hard Work." This means that, with a successful effort, South Korea will one of these days soon become self-supporting, something it has never been before.

The country has already completed enough electric generating plants to take care of its present needs. It now has $120 million a year in export volume and an increasing amount of that is manufactured goods, principally radios. It has set 1971 as target year for a 54 per cent increase in agricultural production. It is engaging in land levelling, fertilizer plant construction and an expansion of its farm extension service. It is beginning to see the end of its need for the U.S. Food For Peace program. It is enlarging its cement factory program. It now produces and processes enough of its own petroleum for its current needs, and is keeping pace with demand in coal mining.

This is quite a different report than we received a few years ago when the news was military and dwelt on the difficulties of "Heart Break Ridge," It also shows that American aid does help a people who wish to help themselves.

Millard Tydings, D-Md., and trounced him in one of the most scurrilous Senate campaigns in history. His defeat was avenged last year by his stepson, lean, likeable Joe Tydings, who will deliver his maiden speech this week as a freshman senator.

As his first issue, he has chosen to battle against the malapportionment of state legislatures. The Supreme Court has ruled that the legislatures must represent all the voters equally. This has come to be known as the "one-man, one-vote" decision, which has caused an uproar in legislatures dominated by rural areas.

Before the Supreme Court stepped in, less than 20 per cent of the population could elect the Senates in eight states. It took only 8 per cent of the people in Nevada to control the state Senate. The It is time for us to eliminate the eyesores vote of a Vermont farmer, as another example, was worth 987 times more than the vote of his city cousin.

Young Tydings will fight to save the Supreme Court decision and to defend equal representation, which will throw him up against some of the same right-wingers who helped crush his father.

These extremists seem more interested in rebuffing the Supreme Court than in saving state legislatures from reapportionment. They are agitating for a new con-comes to assessing the blame or the praise-depending on the viewpoint-for American military intervention in the Dominican Republic it appears that a newcomer gets a larger share than had been previously appreciated.

For Vice Admiral William F. Raborn (ret.) it was an initial venture as head of the Central Intelligence Agency in shaping the course of a major crisis. From the first he insisted with deeply emotional conviction that the rebellion was Communist-dominated and that "another Cuba" was imminent. He gave the President the list of 55 Communists involved in the rebellion. It was subsequently shown that the list contained a number of obvious errors.

 $\Diamond \Diamond \Diamond \Diamond$ But it was Raborn's gungho approach to his task that startled other participants in the high-level conference leading to the decision to send in the Marines. As one of the President's principal advisers remarked afterward, the admiral seemed to have cast himself in the role of Paul Revere charging into the National Security Council to warn that the redcoats were coming.

In the first place, Red China is doing all it can to rub out the influence of its Moscow rival, and has not hesitated to propagandize the fact that the Russians are, after all, part of the white race. But the Soviet Union is also in trouble because South Viet Nam raises a duality of was appointed to the interests and goals. Much as the Soviet Union would like to hit back at U.S. military and political protective measures in Viet Nam, the Kremlin leaders are haunted by the frightening prospect of another showdown with American military might similar to the 1962 confrontation over Soviet missiles in Cuba. Under present circumstances, the Kremlin leaders want no part of any action or development likely to place them in a position such as Nikita Khrushchev faced and from which he shrank when the chips were down.

> 夕 🌣 🌣 Consequently, the Soviet government's response to the American bomber raids on North Vietnamese targets has been of maximum propaganda and minimum action. The threat to enlist and send "volunteers" to the Viet Cong front has been exploited to the hilt in words but not deeds. That vacillatation and inclination to welch on stepping into Viet Nam with anything more than propaganda gestures has not escaped the Peking warlords, and they intend to cash in on this in future years in relation to Southeast Asia.

This same weakness and lack of action by Russia has been remarkably underlined in the Kremlin's attitude toward Malaysia. Soviet policy toward Southeast Asia in Stalin's time was harsh and undiscriminating. It was based on the principle "who is not with us is against us." This rigid position fell apart in the post-Stalin years, and it virtually collapsed after communist China zoomed to the forefront as a giant communist power that must be reckoned with in international councils. Not only did the intrusion of Red China disrupt monolithic communist obedience to the Moscow Goliath but it muscled the Soviet Union out of Southeast Asia and nearly out of all Asia within less than a decade.

For a moment in 1962 it looked as if Red China had committed political suicide in Asia by invading India. But it served primarily to

As a former Oklahoman and the son of an Oklahoma teacher, perhaps I may be permitted to comment on the Star's recent editorial, ''Oklahoma's Crisis.'' Though Oklahoma has a broader tax base than Nebraska, she is far less responsive than Nebraska to the aims of public education and almost entirely deaf to the needs of her two major universities. The faculty salaries at Norman and Stillwater are a scandal in the Big Eight conference, and the pay in the primary and secondary schools is so bad that the exodus of qualified teachers next year may be as much as 25 percent of the total now resident.

More important is the Stars view of the action taken by the N.E.A. in calling for sanctions. The editorial characterizes the N.E.A. as "estremely questionable whether it should attempt police power over the citizens of Oklahoma in fields outside of education." But surely one of the purposes of any trade LAWRENCE POSTON, III association is to concern itself with the economic conditions of the trade. And what does The Star mean by implying that the N.E.A. is attempting to police Oklahom. ans "in fields outside of education?" Is the salary of teachers irrelevant to the educational quality of the system? The editorial moves on to an even more curious note: "If the Oklahoma school children can still make it at the college level they haven't been seriously hurt by the lack of facilities the NEA rules are important." I would characterize this as the theory of minimum inconvenience: If we have muddled along this far, we can continue to muddle

Planning a dinner party for your favorite guests need not be a difficult task for the hostess. One thing to remember; when you're selecting a china pattern, keep in mind the fact that you'll want to use it for many, many different occasions. The exquisite Coquette fine china pattern by Lenox is the perfect solution to this problem. It is a pattern you'll love and can live with forever. Couquette has the feeling of romance and roses in a beautiful garden. The design is a wreath of shadow roses in the contemporary colors of soft-toned sepias surrounded by the carved elegance of the Sculpture shape. The graceful fluted rim is decorated with 24-karat gold. A table set with this charming pattern relieves you of worry and uneasiness when a dinner party is imminent. With a little ingenuity and careful choice of appointments your table will be sure to please the most critical eye. 5-piece place setting 25.95.

China Downtown and Gateway

For the general reader, this is the perfect one-volume American history. It is a brilliant new history of the people of the United States of America by Samuel Eliot Morison, a man of action, who is also a scholar. It is a very personal history in which this distinguished historian presents his intellectual and literary legacy to his country. The unique achievement traces the major strands in America's history from pre-historic man to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. With its highly personal approach, its wide-sweeping view, and its masterly literary style, this is every American's story of his country.

Lt. Gov. Philip C. Sorensen presented the Elsie awards after the final performance of "The Miser," in which Frost received his award for his portrayal of Harpagon.

Veteran Performer Frost, program director at radio station KLIN and moderator of the "What's Your Opinion" program, is a veteran Playhouse performer.

For Schoonover, another familiar face to local audiences, it was his second tie for the major Elsie award. In 1961, he tied with James W. Baker and a year later earned the award on his own in "Finian's Rainbow!' This year, Schoonover played Henry Higgins in "My Fair Lady," picked as the best show of the year.

Mrs. Davidson, wife of Community Playhouse board president Sam Davidson, won her led award for the role of Content Delville in "Marriage Go Round." Tied with her was Gwen Waldo, a University of Nebraska music major, who was Eliza Doolittle in "My Fair Lady." She portrayed Eliza in the Gaslight Players production last summer in Estes Park, Colo.

Almost 8,000

Almost 8,000 Lincolnites will have seen Playhouse performances this season after 'The Miser'' holds over Monday night because of sell-out crowds last week. Playgoers saw plays including "All The Risk," "My Fair Lady" and

"Marriage Go Round." Bruce Nims received the board of directors distinguished service award this year for outstanding production staff work and contribution as stage manager and assistant to the director.

Othe Elsie Award winners were: Jerry Egan, best male supporting role as Ralph Follet in "All The Way Home.

of the suburban areas

What percentage of the population of the United States continues to live in the state where born? On a percentage basis, 67.3 per cent of the total population still resides in the natal state, a variety of states account for 20.7 per cent and the remainder are foreign-born, or born at sea, or in detached territories.

So it's not unusual to find that many of your neighbors weren't born here, but have come to Nebraska since their childhood. And it's a pleasure to welcome home-for a visit those who have left the state to reside elsewhere.

EASTMONT

Nebraska is giving California some competition in being able to attract tourists to the state - at least Eastmont had a visitor from San Francisco this last week.

Reinhold Groh arrived in Lincoln on May 13 and has been spending the week visiting at the home of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Grasmick. But the west coast is calling him back home today. Twenty years ago he was a permanent resident of Lincoln.

We must confess that we know Mr. Groh has been attracted to Nebraska for another reason than to enjoy its warm hospitality and rolling plains country. He came here especially to see his father, George Groh, who has been ill.

The California visitor was on hand Thursday to help celebrate the birthday of his sister, Mrs. Grasmick. And also adding joy to the party were the son-in-law and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grasmick, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Stubbs and their children, Roxanne, Greig, and Troy. Mr. and Mrs. Harley Grasmick, son and daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Grasmick; and their children, Denise, Kristy, Jeff and Sandy, also provided wind power to blow out the candles on "grandma's" cake.

We've heard that birthdays are for children, so that explains why the grandchildren had more fun out of huffing and puffing at the candles on their grand mother's birthday cake than she did herself.

But the older generation wasn't to be outdone by the breezy younger set. Mrs. Grasmick had another birthday celebration in the wind. After all, a birth anniversary comes only once a year.

So Friday night, Mr. and Mrs. Grasmick were joined by Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Donegan and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grasmick for a birthday dinner at the Elk's

has church wedding

At a 4 o'clock ceremony solemnized Sunday afternoon at the Bethany Christian Church, Miss Linda Sue Webster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jess D. Webster, became the bride of Ralph Henry Wolfe, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Wolfe. The Rev. Carl A. Burkhardt, Jr., read the lines of the service. Frocked in French blue peau de soie was Miss Phyllis Webster, who was her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, in powder blue, were Mrs. Kathryn Welding, also a sister of the bride; Miss Cynthia Wolfe, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Jessie Kerrey.

Claude Wingrove served as best man, and seating the guests were Stephen Woodman, Shelton; James Reitz, Superior; David Newlon, Tabor, Iowa; Edward Schrock and Bruce Peterson, Holdrege.

Peau de soie in the candlelight ton e was chosen for the bride's gown. Jeweled appliques of Alencon lace framed the petal neckline of the long-sleeved basque, and the slim skirt was accented by a snug cummerbund of lace and silk detailed at the back by a fabric rose above a detachable train. A circlet of jeweled tulle held her bouffant veil of illusion, and she carried a cascade of gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe will reside at 5327 Huntington. The bride is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta at Nebraska Wesleyan University, from which Mr. Wolfe will be graduated this spring. He is past president of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity.

manners and neglect their California visitor; he had separate plans for the evening. Mr. Groh was the guest at dinner at the home of his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Groh.

PATRICIAN HEIGHTS

Saturday night is a fine time to go out on the town - to kick up your heels and have some fun.

Two Patrician Heights families did go "a-partying" not too long ago on a Saturday night. The jovial group included Mr. and Mrs. John W. Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. Glen H. Floerke, both couples who reside on Wilshire Blvd., and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Deterding, also of Lincoln. The were joined by Mrs. Floerke's cousins Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Obermeyer of Syracuse.

MEADOW LANE

Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Regelean have double cause for celebrating; they are not only newlyweds of nine months but they are also the new owners of a fourbedroom home at 8210 East Avon Lane.

Mr. and Mrs. Regelean were married on August 22 and lived in an apartment on South Fourteenth Street until they became homeowners on May 1.

WEDGEWOOD MANOR

Martin H. Kennelly says that about 2.150,000 American families change their home sites in a year; so that ties in with the news that Mr. and Mrs. Dale E. Walters have also changed their residence. They moved to Wedgewood Manor from McCook, Neb., on May 13.

Mr. and Mrs. Walters have two daughters, Kimberly Rae, four years old; and Katherine Lynn, one year old. Mr. Walters is with the department of labor.

A Sunday afternoon tea was also a 10th anniversary reunion for the nearly 70 former cheerleaders of Southeast High School who were the guests of the schools current cheerleaders at the home of Miss Cathie Cather.

Hostesses for the 2 o'clock to 4 o'clock tea with Miss Cather were Miss Kathy to take exception to your statement that women who do not give their recipes are selfish, and that but for the generosity of others would culling and trying out new recipes. I have experimented (and even improvised) on some recipes trying to perfect them for my guests.

Although it may be flattering to be asked for my recipes, isn't it rather selfish on the part of another to expect to be given a recipe which has entailed much time and effort on my part in order to make her own entertaining easier? Let's be fair to the hostess.

"THE OTHER SIDE"

公公公 DEAR ABBY: Maybe I'm selfish, but here's how I got that way: I love to cook and am always experimenting. Many times I eat the horrible failures for lunch. I once concocted a magnificent lamb dish which took me three days to make. But from the compliments I received from my guests, it was well worth the trouble. One of my guests asked for the recipe, and I foolishly gave it to her. For the next six months we were served that lamb dish everywhere we went to dinner. It's no treat any more. I am now working on something else, and this time I am not going to give out the recipe. If someone wants to serve it for some special occasion, I will make it for her and send it over. Please don't use my name. Stan would crown me

CALL ME SELFISH

公公公 DEAR ABBY: I haven't the nerve to come right out and tell people that I don't give out my recipes, but I get around it by stalling

Hostesses

Entertaining at tea on Sunday afternoon was a group of 9th grade girls at Millard Lefler Junior High School who honored their feminine classmates and women faculty members.

The guests were invited to the home of Miss Janis Forke, 5335 A, between the hours of 1 o'clock and 5 o'clock.

Assisting Miss Forke as hostesses were Miss Judy Brauch, Miss Kathy Burden, Miss Nancy Crosby, Miss Debbie Doerr, Miss Laurel Gerlach, Miss Rita Jacobs, Miss Nancy Jones, Miss Patty Kelly, Miss Linda Knight, Miss Marsha Kohn, Miss Julie Reed, Miss Liz Shapiro, Miss Julie Swanson, Miss Mary Tidball and Miss Sandi

DEAR ABBY: I would like them off until they forget for being a fabulous cook, who gave them the recipe when theirs is a flop

One of the most famous problems ever composed is this one shown here. Its origin is unknown, and it was probably never dealt, but whoever the composer was did a realy excellent job.

The grand slam is certainly a sound contract, but with West having all the missing trumps and a void in diamonds besides, taking thirchore.

It is a double-dummy problem, which means that you're expected and entitled to see all 52 cards before trying to make the contract. It's also fair to add that the solution is not easy. If you feel like row!

spending some time trying to solve the problem, you should stop reading right here.

Declarer wins the club lead with the ace, discarding a diamond from dummy. He then plays a heart to the jack and discards the king of diamonds on the ace of spades.

He next ruffs a spade, enters dummy with a trump, and then ruffs the queen of spades.

By now South has used up four of his original five trumps. To were used to ruff spades, and the other two to enter dummy. West and North at this point, each have two trumps, South only one.

Declarer now plays a heart, to the king and then cashes the ace of hearts, discarding the ace of diamonds. Eight tricks having been played, dummy's last five cards are all diamonds. Since South by now has gotten his A-K of diamonds out of the way, dummy automatically takes the rest of the tricks.

As anyone can plainly see, the contract is easy to make -after you see how it's done. The key play comes on the opening lead when you disteen tricks becomes quite a card a diamond from dummy instead of the more natural discard of a spade. Declarer then deliberately reduces his trump length so that he can eventually unblock the diamond suit.

improved efficiency, better products at lower costs and more leisure time.

And more than 90% of the nation's adalts do not regard automation as a threat to their job security.

Harris

These are two of the key findings in a recently completed survey of a cross section of the adult public.

By 5 to 3, Americans believe that on the whole automation will do more good than harm to the nation. The only group of workers who think otherwise are unskilled laborers. Families whose members belong to labor unions think, by a small margin, that automation-machines doing jobs people did before-is good for the nation. (See Table I.)

When asked what the possible effects of automation will be, 51% of the public said it would increase unemployment and 38% said it hurts those without much education.

Worth It But the majority of the public believes that the advantages of automation are worth the costs. (See Table II.)

Only 1 person in 5 mentioned two of the most talked about aspects of automationfears that people will become numbers and that work will become dull and boring.

Perhaps most of the acceptance of automation by the public as desirable rests on a belief that it does not threaten them personally. Even unskilled workers, a majority of whom think automation will do more harm than good to the nation, do not regard it as a threat to themselves. (See Table III.)

It is clear that those in the managerial, professional, white collar and sales occupations have no fear of new machines. Only skilled and unskilled laborers tend to feel personally threatened.

But it is here that a contradiction in the labor union position about automation becomes clear. An increasing number of strikes in recent years stem directly back to worker and union resistance to the introduction of laborsaving devices. While the results of this survey show how and why these fears have been aroused, the contradiction is that the prevailing view of union members is that automation does more good than harm and does not personally threaten them.

In fact, in the division between blue collar workers and the rest of America, the working group is now in a minority. In politics, this could well mean that organized labor will have an increasingly difficult task pressing its demands. Almost Unanimous

There is, however, one area of action on automation on which there is nearly unanimous consensus in the country. This is on the need for retraining facilities. When asked if the federal government should set up special training schools to retrain those who lose jobs due to automation, the public favors the idea by almost 5 to 1. In addition, 89% of those who favor such schools think that tax money should be spent on retraining.

A Look at Lincoln, the Charms of Beatrice and the Pawpaw of Waubonsie

This 241-mile circle drive from Omaha gives you an intimate glimpse of Nebraska's splendid capital city, the historic Homestead National Monument near Beatrice and colorful river-towns like Nebraska City and Plattsmouth.

You BEGIN this day's motor adventure in your State Capital where you'll see universities, a planetarium, some of the world's best museums, even a herd of ancient and modern elephants. You'll visit numerous parks with splendid recreational facilities including swimming, boating, nature walks, fishing and hunting in season. Enjoy camping and picnicking in relaxing woodland settings. Add to this a slice of American history with pioneer forts, mission remains, Indian burial mounds, portions of the famed Oregon Trail and the former home of the originator of Arbor Day.

Pack a lunch and take your camera. You and your family will discover many places to stop, and you'll want to preserve memories of this exciting Nebraska holiday.

Om. OMAHA. From downtown follow Interstate 480 and then 80 southwest. To the south of the highway via Route 31 lies the GRETNA STATE FISH HATCHERIES where species of bass, sunfish and crappie are propagated. You may wish to take U.S. 6, and Route 63 north on a side trip to MEMPHIS LAKE REC-REATION AREA where you can go boating, fishing, picnicking or camping. In either case, return to or continue on Interstate 80 and U.S. 77 through rolling farm country to ...

59m. LINCOLN, the capital city. Aside from being a prime political and economic hub, Lincoln is also a community of pleasant parks and cultural attractions. The UNIVER-SITY OF NEBRASKA, UNION COL-

LEGE and NEBRASKA WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY add outstanding points of call including the STATE MU-SEUM and MUELLER PLANETARI-UM. The Planetarium features regular sky shows while the museum contains-among its many displays-one of the world's foremost collections of modern and fossil elephants. The tall, modern STATE CAPITOL is surmounted by a 321/2foot high bronze statue of the Sower. Of particular interest is the Supreme Court Chamber's ornate walnut ceiling and the rotunda's mosaic dome. The GOVERNOR'S MAN-SION may be inspected by visitors every Tuesday. Notable murals are found in the FIRST NATIONAL BANK and the PERSHING MEMORIAL AU-DITORIUM. For fascinating displays of firearms, pioneer relics and Indian items, see the NEBRASKA STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETY MUSEUM. For still another glimpse of the past, inspect FAIRVIEW where the William Jennings Bryan family lived for 15 years. Animals and natural beauty go hand-in-hand at the city's two outstanding parks, Antelope and Pioncer. At ANTELOPE PARK you may see sunken gardens and the municipal zoo. PIONEER PARK has herds of deer, elk and buffalo, plus small lakes which attract wildfowl. On leaving Lincoln, follow U.S. 77 south through rich farmland to ...

100m. BEATRICE, on the banks of the Big Blue River. Once a funnel town for frontier homesteaders, today Beatrice is a busy agricultural and industrial center. The old pioneer days are remembered in some of the city's structures and more emphatically, at the HOMESTEAD NATIONAL MONUMENT, four miles northwest via Route 4. This 160acre preserve covers the first quarter-section, of 120,000,000 acres of land, claimed under the Homestead Act of 1862. Daniel Freeman was the settler. You can show your family a pioneer cabin stocked with authentic frontier items, as well as a museum that displays early household equipment, tools, machinery and other relics. You may walk along a self-guiding nature and history trail that passes the original homestead's main building locations. From Beatrice, U.S. 136 runs east over creeks and small rivers.

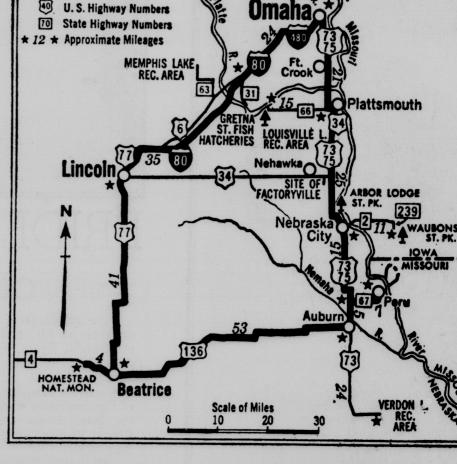

161m. AUBURN, just west of the Nemaha River, lies in the heart of the orchard country. Less than a half hour's drive south on U.S. 73, is the VERDON LAKE RECREATION boating, fishing, seasonal hunting, shoreside picnicking and camping. From Auburn, follow U.S. 73-75 north roughly paralleling the broad Missouri River. Five miles along, Route 67 heads east through corn and fruit raising sections to the college town of PERU on bluffs above the river. Dominating the area is Pikes Peak while nearby is an Indian burial mound and the sites of four Indian houses. You may visit the first state teachers' college in Nebraska at Peru. Return to U.S. 73-75 and turn north.

195m. NEBRASKA CITY, on the old Oregon Trail cut-off, was once a brawling, boisterous river-town. Here bullwhackers, teamsters, mule skinners, sailors, emigrants and other pioneers created a sypical rollicking frontier settlement. Today, still busy but less uproarious, Nebraska City is both a manufacturing community and trade center for the nearby agricultural community.

Two spots stand out for motorists with some extra time. Drive east on Route 2 across the Missouri for 11 miles into Iowa and WAUBONSIE STATE PARK. Here amidst growing yucca and pawpaw, travelers may hike, picnic, camp and gaze on a scene of unusual beauty. Another top attraction is ARBOR LODGE STATE PARK on U.S. 75. One of the state's best preserves, the central feature is the 52-room mansion of J. Sterling Morton who originated Arbor Day. The main building has antiques and early Nebraska relics. The stable has a collection of carriages and other old vehicles, while the rose garden and arboretum with some 200 varieties of trees and

of the suburban areas

What percentage of the population of the United States continues to live in the state where born? On a percentage basis, 67.3 per cent of the total population still resides in the natal state, a variety of states account for 20.7 per cent and the remainder are foreign-born, or born at sea, or in detached territories.

So it's not unusual to find that many of your neighbors weren't born here, but have come to Nebraska since their childhood. And it's a pleasure to welcome home-for a visit those who have left the state to reside elsewhere.

EASTMONT

Nebraska is giving California some competition in being able to attract tourists to the state — at least Eastmont had a visitor from San Francisco this last week.

Reinhold Groh arrived in Lincoln on May 13 and has been spending the week visiting at the home of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Grasmick. But the west coast is calling him back home today. Twenty years ago he was a permanent resident of Lincoln.

We must confess that we know Mr. Groh has been attracted to Nebraska for another reason than to enjoy its warm hospitality and rolling plains country. He came here especially to see his father. George Groh, who has been ill.

The California visitor was on hand Thursday to help celebrate the birthday of his sister, Mrs. Grasmick. And also adding joy to the party were the son-in-law and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grasmick, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Stubbs and their children, Roxanne, Greig, and Troy. Mr. and Mrs. Harley Grasmick, son and daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Grasmick; and their children, Denise, Kristy, Jeff and Sandy, also provided wind power to blow out the candles on "grandma's" cake.

We've heard that birthdays are for children, so that explains why the grandchildren had more fun out of huffing and puffing at the candles on their grand mother's birthday cake than she did herself.

But the older generation wasn't to be outdone by the breezy younger set. Mrs. Grasmick had another birthday celebration in the wind. After all, a birth anniversary comes only once a year.

So Friday night, Mr. and Mrs. Grasmick were joined by Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Donegan and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grasmick for a birthday dinner at the Elk's

has church wedding

At a 4 o'clock ceremony solemnized Sunday afternoon at the Bethany Christian Church, Miss Linda Sue Webster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jess D. Webster, became the bride of Ralph Henry Wolfe, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Wolfe. The Rev. Carl A. Burkhardt, Jr., read the lines of Frocked in French blue peau de soie was Miss Phyllis Webster, who was her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, in powder blue, were Mrs. Kathryn Welding, also a sister of the bride; Miss Cynthia Wolfe, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Jessie Kerrey.

Claude Wingrove served as best man, and seating the guests were Stephen Woodman, Shelton; James Reitz, Superior; David Newlon, Tabor, Iowa; Edward Schrock and Bruce Peterson, Holdrege.

Peau de soie in the candlelight tone was chosen for the bride's gown. Jeweled appliques of Alencon lace framed the petal neckline of the long-sleeved basque, and the slim skirt was accented by a snug cummerbund of lace and silk detailed at the back by a fabric rose above a detachable train. A circlet of jeweled tuile held her bouffant veil of illusion, and she carried a cascade of gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe will reside at 5327 Huntington. The bride is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta at Nebraska Wesleyan University, from which Mr. Wolfe will be graduated this spring. He is past president of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity.

PATRICIAN HEIGHTS

Saturday night is a fine time to go out on the town - to kick up your heels and have some iun.

Two Patrician Heights families did go "a-partying" not too long ago on a Saturday night. The jovial group included Mr. and Mrs. John W. Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. Glen H. Floerke, both couples who reside on Wilshire Blvd., and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Deterding, also of Lincoln. The were joined by Mrs. Floerke's cousins Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Obermeyer of Syracuse.

MEADOW LANE

Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Regelean have double cause for celebrating; they are not only newlyweds of nine months but they are also the new owners of a fourbedroom home at 8210 East Avon Lane.

Mr. and Mrs. Regelean were married on August 22 and lived in an apartment on South Fourteenth Street until they became homeowners on May 1.

WEDGEWOOD MANOR

Martin H. Kennelly says that about 2,150,000 American families change their home sites in a year; so that ties in with the news that Mr. and Mrs. Dale E. Walters have also changed their residence. They moved to Wedgewood Manor from McCook, Neb., on May 13.

Mr. and Mrs. Walters have two daughters, Kimberly Rae, four years old; and Katherine Lynn, one year old. Mr. Walters is with the department of labor.

☆ ☆ ☆ DEAR ABBY: Maybe I'm selfish, but here's how I got that way: I love to cook and am always experimenting. Many times I eat the horrible failures for lunch. I once concocted a magnificent lamb dish which took me three days to make. But from the compliments I received from my guests, it was well worth the trouble. One of my guests asked for the recipe, and I foolishly gave it to her. For the next six months we were served that lamb dish everywhere we went to dinner. It's no treat any more. I am now working on something else, and this time I am not going to give out the recipe. If someone wants to serve it for some special occasion, I will make it for her and send it over. Declarer wins the club lead with the ace, discarding a diamond from dummy. He then plays a heart to the jack and discards the king of diamonds on the ace of spades.

He next ruffs a spade, enters dummy with a trump, and then ruffs the queen of spades.

By now South has used up four of his original five trumps. To were used to ruff spades, and the other two to enter dummy. West and North at this point, each have two trumps, South only one.

Declarer now plays a heart, to the king and then cashes the ace of hearts, discarding the ace of diamonds. Eight tricks having been played, dummy's last five cards are all diamonds. Since South by now has gotten his A-K of diamonds out of the way, dummy automatically takes the rest of the tricks.

As anyone can plainly see, the contract is easy to make -after you see how it's done. The key play comes on the opening lead when you discard a diamond from dummy instead of the more natural discard of a spade. Declarer then deliberately reduces his trump length so that he can eventually unblock the diamond suit.

The marriage of Miss Connie Philippi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Miley Philippi, to Kenneth Byers, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Byers of Reno, Pa., was solemnized Sunday, May 23, at the Havelock Church of Christian Missionary Alliance. The lines of the ceremony were read at 2 o'clock by the Rev. James Cunningham, and Mrs. Robert Birdwell, organist, played the wedding music.

Mrs. Paul Bateman attended her sister as matron of honor, and the bridesmatron was Mrs. Dion Bennett of Millard, also a sister of the bride. Their frocks of jonquil yellow crepe were fashioned in the daytime mode and their brow veils of yellow illusion were held by miniature pearl crowns. They carried bouquets of white daisy chrysanthemums. Serving Mr. Byers as best man was Paul Bateman, and the ushers were Dion Bennet of Millard, Albert Philippi and Don

The bride appeared in a gown of white silk organza and Chantilly lace. The longsleeved bodice of lace was designed with a scalloped neckline, and the bouffant skirt of organza was edged with a deep dust ruffle of the lace and complemented by a Watteau train of organza panels. A crown of pearl-trimmed illusion petals held her tiered veil, and she carried an arrangement of yellow roses.

Following a wedding trip to Hawaii, Mr. and Mrs. Byers will make their home at 6734 Morrill.

All-white chrysanthemums, gladioli and lilacs appointed the altar of Trinity Lutheran Church Sunday afternoon, May 23, for the wedding of Miss Carolyn Jean Crouse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Stice, and Richard Lee Kleckner, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kleckner. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. A. H. Ernst, and Mrs. Herbert Haar, organist, played the wedding and accompanied the vocalist, Russel Thompson, II.

Wearing after-five frocks of white nylon and lime green linen and carrying cascades of lilacs and white asters were Mrs. John C. Elliott, the matron of honor; Miss Linda Lee Kleckner, the maid of honor; and the bridesmaids, Miss Brenda Bindrum and Miss Brenda Marriott, Cosby, Mo.

John C. Elliott served Mr. Kleckner as best man, and the corps of ushers included Glen Vanderbeek of Adams; Dale Scholenberg, Robert Schiller, Mike Bergin and David R. Taladay.

The bride's period gown was fashioned of white silk organza over taffeta. A portrait neckline, framed with pearl-embroidered peau d'ange lace, and bracelet sleeves accented the bodice, and the lace motif was repeated in the trim of the skirt and the Watteau train of organza which continued to chapel length. Her silk illusion veil was held by an open-crowned pillbox cap of threat to their job security. pleted survey of a cross section of the adult public.

By 5 to 3, Americans believe that on the whole automation will do more good than harm to the nation. The only group of workers who think otherwise are unskilled laborers. Families whose members belong to labor unions think, by a small margin, that automation-machines doing jobs people did before-is good for the nation. (See Table I.)

When asked what the possible effects of automation will be, 51% of the public said it would increase unemployment and 38% said it hurts those without much education. Worth It

But the majority of the public believes that the advantages of automation are worth the costs. (See Table II.)

Only 1 person in 5 mentioned two of the most talked about aspects of automationfears that people will become numbers and that work will become dull and boring.

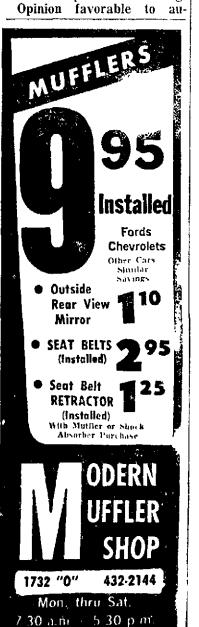

Perhaps most of the acceptance of automation by the public as desirable rests on a belief that it does not threaten them personally. Even unskilled workers, a majority of whom think automation will do more harm than good to the nation, do not regard it as a threat to themselves. (See Table III.)

It is clear that those in the managerial, professional, white collar and sales occupations have no fear of new machines. Only skilled and unskilled laborers tend to feel personally threatened.

But it is here that a contradiction in the labor union position about automation becomes clear. An increasing number of strikes in recent years stem directly back to worker and union resistance to the introduction of laborsaving devices. While the results of this survey show how and why these fears have been aroused, the contradiction is that the prevailing view of union members is that automation does more good than harm and does not personally threaten them.

In fact, in the division between blue collar workers and the rest of America, the working group is now in a minority. In politics, this could well mean that organized labor will have an increasingly difficult task pressing its demands. Almost Unanimous

There is, however, one area of action on automation on which there is nearly unanimous consensus in the country. This is on the need for retraining facilities. When asked if the federal government should set up special training schools to retrain those who lose jobs due to automation, the public favors the idea by almost 5 to 1. In addition, 89% of those who favor such schools think that tax money should be spent on retraining.

A Look at Lincoln, the Charms of Beatrice and the Pawpaw of Waubonsie

This 241-mile circle drive from Omaha gives you an intimate glimpse of Nebraska's splendid capital city, the historic Homestead National Monument near Beatrice and colorful river-towns like Nebraska City and Plattsmouth,

You BEGIN this day's motor adventure in your State Capital where you'll see universities, a planetarium, some of the world's best museums, even a herd of ancient and modern elephants. You'll visit numerous parks with splendid recreational facilities including swimming, boating, nature walks, fishing and hunting in season. Enjoy camping and picnicking in relaxing woodland settings. Add to this a slice of American history with pioneer forts, mission remains, Indian burial mounds, portions of the famed Oregon Trail and the former home of the originator of Arbor Day.

Pack a lunch and take your camera. You and your family will discover many places to stop, and you'll want to preserve memories of this exciting Nebraska holiday.

Om. OMAHA. From downtown follow Interstate 480 and then 80 southwest. To the south of the highway via Route 31 lies the GRETNA STATE FISH HATCHERIES where species of bass, sunfish and crappie are propagated. You may wish to take U.S. 6, and Route 63 north on a side trip to MEMPHIS LAKE REC-REATION AREA where you can go boating, fishing, pienicking or camping. In either case, return to or continue on Interstate 80 and U.S. 77 through rolling farm country to ...

59m. LINCOLN, the capital city. Aside from being a prime political and economic hub, Lincoln is also a community of pleasant parks and cultural attractions. The UNIVER-

LEGE and NEBRASKA WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY add outstanding points of call including the STATE MU-SEUM and MUELLER PLANETARI-UM. The Planetarium features regular sky shows while the museum contains-among its many displays-one of the world's foremost collections of modern and fossil elephants. The tall, modern STATE CAPITOL is surmounted by a 321/2foot high bronze statue of the Sower. Of particular interest is the Supreme Court Chamber's ornate walnut ceiling and the rotunda's mosaic dome. The GOVERNOR'S MAN-SION may be inspected by visitors every Tuesday. Notable murals are found in the FIRST NATIONAL BANK and the PERSHING MEMORIAL AU-DITORIUM. For fascinating displays of firearms, pioneer relics and Indian items, see the NEBRASKA STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETY MUSEUM. For still another glimpse of the past, inspect FAIRVIEW where the William Jennings Bryan family lived for 15 years. Animals and natural beauty go hand-in-hand at the city's two outstanding parks, Antelope and Pioncer. At ANTELOPE PARK you may see sunken gardens and the municipal zoo. PIONEER PARK has herds of deer, elk and buffalo, plus small lakes which attract wildfowl. On leaving Lincoln, follow U.S. 77 south through rich farmland to ...

100m. BEATRICE, on the banks of the Big Blue River. Once a funnel town for frontier homesteaders, today Beatrice is a busy agricultural and industrial center. The old pioneer days are remembered in some of the city's structures and more emphatically, at the HOMESTEAD NATIONAL MONUMENT, four miles northwest via Route 4. This 160acre preserve covers the first quarter-section, of 120,000,000 acres of land, claimed under the Homestead Act of 1862. Daniel Freeman was the settler. You can show your faniily a pioneer cabin stocked with authentic frontier items, as well as a museum that displays early household equipment, tools, machinery and other relics. You may walk along a self-guiding nature and history trail that passes the original home-stead's main building locations. From Beatrice, U.S. 136 runs east over creeks and small rivers.

161m. AUBURN, just west of the Nemaha River, lies in the heart of the orchard country. Less than a half hour's drive south on U.S. 73, is the VERDON LAKE RECREATION boating, fishing, seasonal hunting, shoreside picnicking and camping. From Auburn, follow U.S. 73-75 north roughly paralleling the broad Missouri River. Five miles along, Route 67 heads east through corn and fruit raising sections to the college town of PERU on bluffs above the river. Dominating the area is Pikes Peak while nearby is an Indian burial mound and the sites of four Indian houses. You may visit the first 'state teachers' college in Nebraska at Peru. Return to U.S. 73-75 and turn north.

195m. NEBRASKA CITY, on the old Oregon Trail cut-off, was once a brawling, boisterous river-town. Here bullwhackers, teamsters, mule skinners, sailors, emigrants and other pioneers created a sypical rollicking frontier settlement. Today, still busy but less uproarious, Nebraska City is both a manufacturing community and trade center for the nearby agricultural community.

Two spots stand out for motorists with some extra time. Drive east on Route 2 across the Missouri for 11 miles into Iowa and WAUBONSIE STATE PARK. Here amidst growing yucca and pawpaw, travelers may hike, picnic, camp and gaze on 2 scene of unusual beauty. Another top attraction is ARBOR LODGE STATE PARK on U.S. 75. One of the state's best preserves, the central feature is the 52-room mansion of J. Sterling Morton who originated Arbor Day. The main building has antiques and early Nebraska relics. The stable has a collection of carriages and other old vehicles, while the rose garden and arboretum with some 200 varieties of trees and shrubs are ideal for peaceful strolls.

North of Nebraska City, U.S. 73-75 runs through hilly orchard country. U.S. 34 leads to such spots as WEEPING WATER CREEK, said to have been formed by the tears of bereaved Indian squaws; NEHAWKA, near which were found the first traces of prehistoric man in Nebraska, and the sites of once-booming but now long-gone pioneer towns like FACTORYVILLE. Continue north on U.S. 73-75 and 34.

220m. PLATTSMOUTH. Turn left on Route 66 for a pleasant side trip west 15 miles to LOUISVILLE LAKE

RECREATION AREA along the Platte River. Here your family can relax around five sandpit lakes and add a round of fun by swimming, boating, fishing, hunting or camping. Return to Plattsmouth and continue north on U.S. 73-75 across the Platte River and past FORT CROOK to ...

241m. OMAHA. Back home, you and your children will relive for days to come the enchantments of

6th-Rated Foster Fighting Tonight In New Orleans

New Orleans (A) - Hardhitting Bob Foster of Washington, sixth-ranked light-heavyweight contender, takes on Chuck Leslie of New Orleans Monday night in a 10-round boxing match—the city's first main event bout in more than a year.

For Foster, it will be his 27th bout as a pro. He's won 23 bouts including 21 on knockouts. Eleven of his kayo victories came in the first round. He's lost but three fights.

Leslie, unranked, is a relative newcomer to pro boxing.

In my own case, I have habitually rejected compromises on principle. When another hits my car and his insurance company, recognizing responsibility, suggests a compromise, I demur: "If the negligence is demonstrably on the other side, then it should pay in full. # You can buy this Superb Rib Roast only at Safeway for one reason...its aged only as Safeway does it

PROPER AGING is reason No. 1 why you'll find your best meat value at Safeway! For example: Each rib roast you buy at Safeway is aged so you taste its full natural tenderness and flavor. To assure you properly-aged meat, Safeway has a large Meat-aging Department. Here Safeway meats are properly aged under controlled temperature, humidity, and sanitary conditions - the exact number of days required to develop peak goodness.

TOP GRADES ONLY! Each rib roast you buy at Safeway is from USDA Choice Grade beef (actually, only meat of the top grades is improved by aging!). This tender juicy meat is packed in sterilized boxes at our Central Meat Department and delivered to Safeway stores by refrigerated trucks.

CLOSE-TRIMMED, TOO! Each rib roast you buy at Safeway is trimmed (trimmed before weighing, so you save money) to give you more tender center-portion roast meat. Sketch here shows you rib roast as Safeway sells it—with the end section of short ribs removed (these are sold separately at a lower price per pound)...and the heavy chine bone removed (this bone is replaced by a lightweight layer of fat which seals in meat juices). Safeway meat-trimming means better eating and better value!

Over 3 Billion Dollars in Benefits Last Year

Three billion dollars plus is a substantial sum of money, but this is the kind of money it takes when so many hospital and medical benefits are paid for in full. Modern health care is more expensive today, but Blue Cross-Blue Shield continues to offer the care you need, regardless of increased costs. Your Blue Cross-Blue Shield dollars retain their health care buying power . . . another reason why one out of every three Americans has this protection today.

Have you talked to your man from Blue Cross-Blue Shield lately?

You can buy this Superb Rib Roast only at Safeway

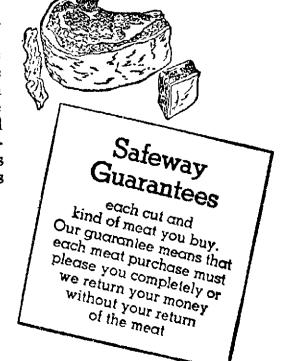

for one reason...it's aged only as Safeway does it

PROPER AGING is reason No. 1 why you'll find your best meat value at Safeway! For example: Each rib roast you buy at Safeway is aged so you taste its full natural tenderness and flavor. To assure you properly-aged meat, Safeway has a large Meat-aging Department. Here Safeway meats are properly aged under controlled temperature, humidity, and sanitary conditions - the exact number of days required to develop peak goodness.

TOP GRADES ONLY! Each rib roast you buy at Safeway is from USDA Choice Grade beef (actually, only meat of the top grades is improved by aging!). This tender juicy meat is packed in sterilized boxes at our Central Meat Department and delivered to Safeway stores by refrigerated trucks.

CLOSE-TRIMMED, TOO! Each rib roast you buy at Safeway is trimmed (trimmed before weighing, so you save money) to give you more tender center-portion roast meat. Sketch here shows you rib roast as Safeway sells it-with the end section of short ribs removed (these are sold separately at a lower price per pound)...and the heavy chine bone removed (this bone is replaced by a lightweight layer of fat which seals in meat juices). Safeway meat-trimming means better eating and better value!

LEGION HEADQUARTERS DEDICATED

The American Legion and Auxiliary Memorial Building at 5600 P was dedicated Sunday afternoon. The $125,000 structure is headquarters for the organization's Nebraska department. Guest speakers were Lt. Gov. Philip C. Sorensen, at rostrum; Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., behind Sorensen; and Lincoln Mayor Dean Petersen.

At Curtis' left is program chairman James C. Smith. The dedicatory address was made by William E. Galbraith, Legion national executive committeeman. The building was accepted by Mrs. Margaret Haseloh, state auxiliary president, and John Keriakedes, department commander.

SURE

about the price of the home you plan to buy?

Many factors enter into the "price tag" on a home. Important considerations include the location of the property, construction and condition of the home itself and how well it will suit the prospective home buyer's needs. Add to this the climate of the real estate market itself, and the home buyer finds himself with many factors to consider.

Establishing a fair value or price on a home is no job for an amateur. It requires the advice and counsel of an expert in the field. A Realtor is just such a person. His experience and working knowledge of home values renders him the best qualified person to assist the home buyer in arriving at the right price to be paid for any piece of property. When you seek a home, be sure of the price. Let a member of the Lincoln Board of Realtors help you pick the right home.

ARE YOU SURE

about the price of the home you plan to buy?

Many factors enter into the "price tag" on a home. Important considerations include the location of the property, the construction and condition of the home itself and how well it will suit the prospective home buver's needs. Add to this the climate of the real estate market itself, and the home buyer finds himself with many factors to consider.

Establishing a fair value or price on a home is no job for an amateur. It requires the advice and counsel of an expert in the field. A Realton is just such a person. His experience and working knowledge of home values renders him the best qualified person to assist the home buyer in arriving at the right price to be paid for any piece of property. When you seek a home, be sure of the price. Let a member of the Lincoln Board of Realtors help you pick the right home.
